

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XIX.

STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, JANUARY 22, 1892.

NO. 93

BARBOURVILLE, KNOX COUNTY.

—Chas. R. Catching, of London, was in town Monday and Tuesday on business and made headquarters with the writer.

—Mr. T. M. Sampson, whom the Barbourville News styles the young merchant prince of Barbourville, is in Louisville and Cincinnati this week buying goods.

—Miss Mannie Johnson, second daughter of Mr. Dan A. Johnson, a prominent business man of this place, is very low with grip. Miss Johnson has been suffering for some weeks and is not expected to live.

—Barbourville, within the course of a month or two, will have a salt manufactory with a capacity of 50 barrels per day, and the erection of a steam laundry is an enterprise which is more than likely to be forwarded.

—Judge Wm. Lindsay, of Frankfort, who, by reason of the appointment which the president made him a proffer of, has enjoyed so much newspaper notoriety of late, was a guest of our city last week on his way to Washington, where he afterward declined the appointment.

—Mr. W. J. Caudill has just received a letter from a friend in Clay county stating that John Hensley, a desperate character of that county, waylaid and killed one John Dezu, a well-to-do citizen of the same county, about ten miles down the river from Manchester. Dezu was a son-in-law of Ex-State Senator John Hydin, of Clay county. Several parties are reported as having seen Hensley shoot. Serious trouble is looked for now as a result, as both parties have a number of followers, who will probably take it up.

—The work of the county supervisors which they just completed last week, has been the principal topic of conversation for the past few days. Your representative overheard a conversation between some interested parties yesterday during the course of which one victim took occasion to remark that they had raised him $2,000. A second man interrupted him with, "I believe I would call em and see what they were doing it on." "Don't do it," said a third man, "unless you have better than a full house for that's what the supervisors had when I called to tell my 'little tale of woe' and I could scarcely get my head in at the door."

—Your correspondent is frank to confess that for some time past he has been very negligent about his letters and as a consequence has let many news items escape his memory owing to press of other matters. Among other things was a mention of the second of the regular series of lectures given by Union College of this place, which was delivered Tuesday night, Jan. 12th, by Judge J. H. Tinsley, of this place. His subject was, "From Cumberland Gap to the Ohio in 1862." The lecture was simply excellent and when Judge Tinsley had closed his interesting discourse he was the recipient of many congratulatory compliments and the writer heard many more which were not delivered in the presence of the judge. So favorably impressed with Judge Tinsley's effort was Col. Dan Rawlings, the great railroad attorney of this place, that he frankly remarked to your scribe that the lecture was a close rival of "Money and Morals" which the "Star-eyed Goddess" has won so many rounds of applause and such crowns of success with. During his talk Judge Tinsley told many entertaining war stories and his personal reminiscence were particularly interesting, interesting as he did throughout the whole humor and pathos in a manner which effected its purpose.

THE WORLD GROWS.—Noah Webster would not know his old dictionary in the perfection it has attained in the hands of modern scholars. The world grows, however, and dictionaries with it, so that a cheap reprint of the 44 years old "original" Webster is worth about as much as an old almanac. Webster's International Dictionary, the recent successor of the latest and still copyrighted "Unabridged," is the best work of its kind ever published, and well used in a family, will be of more value to the members thereof than many times its cost laid up in money.

It is announced that the American Bell Telephone company has so forwarded its experiments in the telephone field that it has perfected a telephone by which whispers can be transmitted 300 miles with perfect distinction.

—In Arkansas, Peter Baker was found murdered in his house. His wife was missing and so was a man named Johnson. The other day they returned and the neighbors suspecting them of the murder lashed their backs together and hung them with the same rope.

—Miss Finnetta Woods, the alleged victim of Mayor Higgins, of Somerset, has grown hopelessly insane and has been sent to the asylum at Lexington. Higgins has been released on $1,200 bond, and, it is said, his friends intend to let him escape and pay the bond.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Will Dunlap is very ill with pneumonia.

—Mr. Spaulding has introduced a bill in the Legislature entitled "An act to protect the fish in the waters of the State." Why not protect the fish that are not in the waters, especially the suckers and chubs.

—The remains of Mr. Thomas A. Scott, who was killed near Cumberland Gap Tuesday, were brought here this morning for burial. He had the friendship of the entire community, who sympathize deeply with the grief stricken family.

—Representative Lord, of California, has introduced a bill to prohibit any Chinese from ever coming to this country, and yet we boast of our hospitable shores, and invite the world, Chinese included, to our Columbian Exposition.

—James I. Hamilton and wife have moved into the handsome Lillard property on Lexington street. Mr. C. F. Bailey, who has been exhibiting Edison's phonograph at McRoberts' drug store for the last few days, left Wednesday morning for Richmond, where he will exhibit that wonderful instrument.

—The Lancaster Brass Band was organized this week. A new set of Conn instruments will be ordered at once and the citizens residing in the neighborhood of the practice room are hereby warned. The members are John M. Duncan, J. E. Stornes, H. W. Batson, J. C. Hemphill, R. E. Hughes, Louis Landrum, J. M. Farra, L. Owsley, Charley Anderson and John Lear.

—Our young friend Mr. Ed R. Jones, Agent for the Central Kentucky Hedge Fence Company, says he did a big business in Stanford the last court day. He sold over 1,000 rods of hedge to the Lincoln county farmers and says they are the best people he ever met. He expects to canvass Lincoln county thoroughly after the snow and sleet disappears.

—A very enjoyable impromptu hop was given at the Holmes House on Monday evening. Signor Black's orchestra furnished the music which was first-class. Those who attended were Misses Nellie Marrs, Mary Miller, Maud Robinson, Ada B. Farra, Allie Anderson, Mattie Elkin, Carrie B. Woods and Messrs. John Doty, John Farra, Chas. Anderson, Denny, J. and F. Robinson, Wherritt, Owsley, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Stornes and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Marrs.

—Joseph Jefferson, the actor, says that in traveling on a street car in New York he once met a gentleman whose face seemed familiar, but whose name he could not recall. To relieve the embarrassment, as he had been familiarly addressed, he asked his name and was informed that it was U. S. Grant. The question was asked, "What did you do, Joe?" "Do? Why, I just got off the car at the first stopping place for fear I would ask him if he had ever been in the war."

—Capt. Chase, with his troop of the 3d U. S. cavalry, is said to be hot on the trail of Garza, and arrived at the home of Garza's father-in-law on the evening of the 13th inst. Garza and his men were not to be found, though there were indications that they had been there recently. If they could get neither Garza nor his father-in-law, they might have captured his mother-in-law, and they would then have had something of which to boast, if she had not in the meantime whipped out the whole party. It seems that a single Mexican revolutionist with a handful of men can successfully elude the U. S. army under experienced generals, and all they are able to report is that they are "hot on his trail."

—The adjutant general of Missouri says that communications have been received from Washington counseling the recruiting of the National Guards in that State. This is thought to have reference to the prospective war with Chili. As Congress has not yet declared war, it becomes important to know what public functionary has assumed the responsibility of authorizing recruiting in the various States, and if such authority exists, why Kentucky has been overlooked. Adjutant General Gross would not be slow to buckle on his sword, don his paint and feathers and ensconce in his snow shoes and with tomahawk in hand, grip or no grip, sound the war cry of "On to Chili!" if he could only get an intimation that his services were needed. Chilians, beware. We are a warlike people when aroused, and could whip you if you were twice as small as you are.

—The tone of most of the dispatches relative to our troubles with Chili shows that some of the officers of our navy are bent on a fight and leaving nothing undone that has entered into their warlike imaginations to precipitate hostilities. Commander Evans, of the Yorktown, now at Valparaiso, is quite belligerent, and telegraphs: "I have requested the American minister to say to the minister of foreign affairs that I am responsible to my own government and not to that of Chili in such matters, and that I consider his criticism offensive and I will not accept it. His action seems unworthy of the representation of a serious government." This is quite fierce and the only wonder is that Commander Evans has not declared war, as he seems to be a law unto himself and fully aware of his importance. What he means by a "serious government" is not easily understood. Possibly, if he would imitate Commander Schley, of the Baltimore, and send a hundred or so of his sailors on shore and let them get drunk, they might whip out the entire Chili nation, and thus get the honor of squelching a republic. Judging from the bombastic tone of Commander Evans' pronouncement, he is, in the beautiful and impressive language of the poet, "getting too big for his breeches."

CRAB ORCHARD.

—Mr. Geo. Woodring was up, Wednesday shaking hands with old friends before leaving for New Hope, his old home, where he has been installed as agent for the L. & N.

—Not to be daunted, Mr. Otis Newland left early Monday in search of the negro, Geo. Dollins, whom he captured near Bee Lick and brought in ready to go to Stanford on the local Monday evening.

—We are almost formed into a piece of crystallized statuary this weather and are afraid the sleet has become chronic, but we will be willing to excuse it next year, if the rest are, for it takes too much summer shade for us to appreciate its value.

—Mrs. Will Saunders and family have moved to Louisville, where Mr. Saunders will join her in a few days. Mr. Henry Pettus has returned to his home from Palaski, Tenn., whither he went to take a position about the first of the month. He did not tarry long.

—Quite a number of ladies, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Holden, went to Stanford to take in Blind Tom, and it was indeed a merry crowd. If the local went on to Stanford our people would often attend the theatre in Stanford, but getting from Rowland is always a bother.

—Mr. Henle McClure has left to take a position with Crow & Co., of McKinney. Mr. Joe McClure has also gone to take a position with a distilling firm at Stamping Ground, this State. These are young men we can scarce afford to lose from Crab Orchard, owing to their noble characters, but feel they will be appreciated in the communities where they go. Mr. Wilson Dillon was in town Tuesday on business for his father.

MIDDLEBURG, CASEY COUNTY.

—Squirrels are said to be very plentiful in the woods about here.

—John Coffey, our champion sheep raiser, has several young lambs which he cares for more tenderly than he does his sweetheart.

—The sleet of last week was the heaviest in this neck of the woods for several years. It did much damage to forest trees and orchards.

—Mr. Fred Delk, who lives on Indian Creek, three miles above here, found five hogs that went astray a year and a half ago. They had lived in the woods, in less than a mile of his farm, during the whole time and had become quite wild and it required the assistance of several men and dogs to capture them.

—We notice that Col. Silas Adams, our representative in the Legislature, is dubbed the "Silent Member." Silence is a virtue that not many legislators possess and we rather like silence and commend it in our representative. But silence is not the only virtue by a long shot. To sit silently through a six-months' session of the Legislature and do comparatively nothing except to draw his salary is neither commendable in Col. Adams nor any other member. We owe Col. Adams no ill will. On the other hand we are the best of friends, but we have yet to hear of a single thing he did during the sitting of the Legislature two years ago, except to smoke his pipe and draw his salary. With his reputation for indolence and carelessness, we shall expect little or nothing from him this time as heretofore.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

—Hon. D. B. Edmiston has our thanks for numerous public documents.

—Col. J. S. May was one of the committee appointed to attend the World's Fair meeting at Louisville.

—Judge Breckinridge and Mr. Edmiston room together at Mrs. Ware's. L. Y. Leavell boards at the Keyway Hotel.

—It is said that the judiciary committee fails to find any authority by which the attorney general can begin proceedings against the lotteries of the State, in accordance with the Goebel resolution, to that effect, recently adopted.

—A bill was introduced in the State Senate providing that the railroads be not allowed to charge more than 2 cents a mile for passenger transportation. As they can't ride free, the legislators want to take spite out on the railroads.

—Henry G. Dowd, known as "Jack the Slasher," has been arrested in New York charged with murdering five men.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—S. K. Ramey commences quarterly meeting at the Methodist church Saturday.

—James Perman has commenced building a nice dwelling in the Ford and Nield addition.

—The school at the common school-house, taught by Robert Tankesley, has 48 in attendance.

—Will Long, a 16 year old boy, died at Lily, Tuesday, and was buried Wednesday at Mt. Salem.

—I suppose you will give due notice of the snow that fell Tuesday and up to today, so I won't mention it.

—H. C. Thompson, R. M. Jackson and Jno. C. Jackson left Wednesday morning for Stanford to hear Blind Tom.

—A debating society has been organized in the Seminary for the benefit of the students and is held every Friday night.

—Joseph Tuttle got license to marry Miss Mary Jones Wednesday. His age is 50, hers 35. This is Mr. Tuttle's fifth marriage.

—Born, Monday night, to the wife of Dan Pitman, twins, both dead. Mrs. Pitman was in a serious condition, but is now better.

—Laurel Seminary has 105 students enrolled. The teachers are Profs. Yates and Jones, natives and graduates of Kentucky University.

—Not one of the parties appointed to the exposition conference went, so far as I can learn. That $5 ticket to the Galt House banquet is too much for mountain blood.

The C. K. M. Association.

The quarterly meeting of the Central Kentucky Medical Association was held in the Clemens House, Danville, Wednesday last, commencing at 10:30 o'clock a.m., with Dr. W. A. Brown, president, in the chair.

The attendance was unusually good, more than 20 members answering to the roll call.

Diphtheria, its Etiology and Treatment, was the subject for discussion, Dr. F. L. Harrod, chairman.

Dr. Plummer, Harrodsburg, made the Sectional Report on Materia Medica and Therapeutics.

The Rector of the Society—Dr. Myer, of Danville, read an interesting paper, entitled, My Thirteen Hundred and Fiftieth Case of Obstetrics.

Dr. A. D. Price read a paper on "Face Presentations," which was highly commended, and for which he received a vote of thanks.

"Some Symptoms of Degeneration in Modern Therapeutics" was the subject of a timely, suggestive and practical paper by Dr. H. J. Cowan, Danville.

After an exhibition of instruments, remedies, new books, &c., Dr. L. S. McMurry, of Louisville, a member of the organization, presented to the Society, through Dr. Bogle, of Danville, two Gynecological specimens, which he had recently removed from a couple of his patients, recovery following each operation. One was an Uterine Myoma, weighing 18 pounds; the other a tumor removed for double Pyosalpinx.

The following gentlemen were elected officers to serve the ensuing year: President, Dr. J. G. Carpenter, Stanford; vice-president, Dr. F. L. Harrod, Harrodsburg; permanent secretary, Dr. Steele Bailey, Stanford; treasurer, Dr. H. Brown, Hustonville.

A singular coincidence, and one that may not happen again in a jubilee for years, Lincoln county this year furnishes the president and secretary to the two largest medical organizations in the State—the Kentucky State Medical Society and the Central Kentucky Medical Association. Dr. H. Brown and Dr. Bailey, of the former, and Dr. Carpenter and Dr. Bailey of the latter.

The C. K. M. A. will hold its next meeting in Stanford, upon invitation, at which time Dr. Carbricht, of Junction City, will open the discussion with a paper on "Typhoid Fever, its Etiology and Treatment."

—The worst snow-storm in years has cut off railroad and telegraphic connection between France and Spain.

—Near St. Johns, O., white caps took Charles Peterson and Mary Sheldroff, who had been living in adultery, from their home and ducked them in a creek. It is thought the woman will die.

—The Cincinnati Post says that Mrs. Betts, who ran off with Sheriff Sparks, from Robertson county, is stopping with relatives in Cleveland and trying to make arrangements to be received back by her husband. Sparks is at home with his family and will pay off his debts as soon as all suits are withdrawn.

—Prof. B. Frank Bristow, the well-known Covington music teacher, has decided to turn his High Bridge Camp meeting into an institute for the curing of drunkenness. A prominent Covington physician, is to have complete control of the new venture and the improving of the place is to be commenced immediately. The professor says if such an institution won't pay in Kentucky it won't pay anywhere.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 Murray Street, N. Y.

THERE was a very large gathering of representative men at the World's Fair conference at Louisville and important steps were taken to have Kentucky properly represented at the great show. Ex-Gov. Buckner was made chairman, Col. W. G. Welch one of the vice presidents and Mr. A. K. Denny put on the committee of permanent organization. A grand banquet wound up the very interesting meeting. The Legislature is to be asked for an appropriation of $100,000 and a committee was appointed to draw a bill and request its passage. Over 240 delegates were present.

THE speech of Senator R. J. Breckinridge on the lottery bill was the most sensible of any we have read. He, like most everybody, is opposed to the octopus, but he is for proceeding against it in a decent and lawful manner until it is certain they have no right to exist under the present laws. By the way, the judiciary committee of the House has decided that the only way to proceed against the lotteries is through the circuit courts and not through proceedings instituted by the attorney general as a bill proposes.

THE appointment of Col. Nicholas McDowell, of Boyle, to be commissioner of agriculture, will go far towards removing the belief that Gov. Brown knows no part of the State but the "pennyrite district" and give great satisfaction wherever the estimable gentleman is known. Mr. McDowell is a farmer and a successful one and he will carry to the office of commissioner a broad knowledge of what will most concern his duties. He is besides a fine read man and a typical old Kentucky gentleman.

His many friends will be glad to hear that Mr. E. W. Newman, the well-known "Savoyard" of the Courier-Journal and Times, has been appointed to the charge of keeping the seal-room of the House. The position requires a great deal of labor, especially when the holder is paid his $2,000 a year in silver, and he has to lug it around with him; otherwise Brer Newman will have little to do, but look wise and important.

THE Legislature has so far done worse than nothing, although it has been at it nearly a month. The newspapers and politicians have been telling them that they had a big work to do and have actually made the members believe that they will have to be in session all the year. This is all poppycock. It ought not to take six months for them to do all they can do, even if so long a time.

A WAR with Chili since the second alleged insult, seems promising. The Atlantic squadron has been ordered around Cape Horn, while in the straits of Magellan is gathering the Chilean fleet. It won't be much of a job for 65,000,000 people to whip 3,000,000, but when we come to think of the large increase of our already preposterously large pension list, which it will occasion, we are for taking a little sass and let the matter go.

EMMETT LOGAN, the irrepressible young man of the Louisville Times, has kindly withdrawn his opposition both to the nomination and election of Mr. Waterson to the presidency and allowed the band to begin to play. The New York Herald continues to urge his nomination and the Times knowing how fruitless his opposition would be under such circumstances, sensibly stopped kicking against the pricks.

JUDGE TONEY, of Louisville, decides that the holder has the right to sell any collateral stocks, bonds, etc., that he may have taken to secure a debt, after the failure of the borrower to pay at the promised time, without any legal steps whatever. The decision was on an application for an injunction to prevent such sale, and it strikes us as being wisdom if not law.

THE question as to who wrote "The Beautiful Snow," which has been a subject of dispute for many years, has at last been authoritatively settled. Polk Johnson says Arthur Ford wrote it, and while Polk says more than his prayers as a general thing he is much like the father of his country. He has cut many an apple tree.

SENATOR PARKER has introduced an act to treat a board of commissioners known as a fiscal court, for each county. This plan has proven much more satisfactory in the several counties that have adopted it and it is hoped the bill will pass. It would be a decided improvement on old magistrate court system.

PHILADELPHIA democrats are nearly solid for Cleveland and since we come to think of it nearly all other democrats are who love honesty and integrity and are seriously in earnest about tariff reform and an economically administered government.

THE mercury has been out of sight again in the Northwest and much suffering has resulted both among people and stock.

NEWSY NOTES.

—Messrs. George and Walthall were re-elected senators from Mississippi, and Senator Gorman was re-elected from Maryland.

—The department of agriculture states that the posterity of one female sparrow in 10 years is something like 272,000,000,000 birds.

—The Maysville Fair Company was fined $600 and the Germantown Fair Company $400 for allowing gambling on their grounds.

—At Leon Station, Mrs. Thomas Stapleton was shot and killed with a shotgun by James Triplett. He will be lynched if captured.

—The president, cashier and one of the directors of the defunct Franklin Bank, of Clarksville, Tenn., have been indicted for grand larceny.

—In the democratic convention at Philadelphia to nominate delegates to the State convention, the Cleveland men made almost a clean sweep.

—A Wabash special train ran into a sleighing party of 22 members at a St. Louis crossing, killing eight, fatally injuring four and hurting others.

—Representative Kendall has introduced a bill to establish a Federal court at Jackson, Breathitt county, but we seem to have courts enough already.

—Representative Loud, of California, has introduced a bill in the House to absolutely prohibit Chinese entering the United States under any circumstances.

—A ferryboat was struck by the ice on the Kentucky river. A family on board reached shore on horses and the ferryman saved himself by clinging to a rope.

—"Black Tiger," who has fooled the officers in the Indian Territory so long, played his last trick on them by dying of pneumonia in bed instead of "with his boots on."

—Natural gas exploded in a Lancaster, Ohio, private residence, demolishing it, partly destroying two churches and damaging about 50 houses. No one was seriously hurt.

—Senator Quay has been vindicated by a Beaver, Pa., jury, which found that the Star's charge that he was culpably connected with the Keystone Bank deficit was a libel.

—T. M. Ford died in Richmond, aged 75. The winter has been peculiarly severe on old people and the papers are full of accounts of deaths of those three score and ten and over.

—Texas has suffered severely by the cold snap. At Dallas the mercury was nearly down to zero and a hurricane and sleet of unusual violence put all business at a stand still.

—The C. & O. has purchased the N. N. & M. V., but will not assume control till April. This will give the C. & O. a direct line to Louisville from Lexington either by L. & N. or L. S.

—Charles S. Weatherby and W. A. Stevens, nominal proprietors of a Cincinnati dry goods store, but agents for H. B. Claffin & Co., of New York, are charged with embezzling $70,000.

—The courts have decided that the interest on the State funds that the Wisconsin's treasurers have been appropriating to their own use, must be returned to the State. The amount now is $350,000.

—A terrific explosion occurred in the mills of the Phoenix Powder Company, at Kellogg, W. Va., instantly killing six men and fatally injuring two more, while several more received burns of a horrible nature.

—Seventy-three bodies have been recovered from the river Kera, at Tiflis, Russia, where a temporary bridge broke Sunday during the blessing of the waters of the river. Many bodies are still at the bottom of the stream.

—The mad chase for office never ceases. The remains of H. H. Kavanaugh had not been laid to rest before there were persons in Frankfort seeking to succeed him as prison chaplain. The trail of the serpent is over us all.—Frankfort Capital.

—Rev. V. Q. Morrow, a United Presbyterian minister, for the past six years chaplain of Bethany Home, a faith cure institution of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been summarily dismissed from the home for kissing the hysterical women who sought cure there. He explained that it was the "holy kiss" recommended by St. Paul, but as the "holy kiss" was never given except to the young and good looking, the explanation did not work.

HUBBLE.

—B. L. Hubble writes from Atlanta that the mule market is some better than at first.—Dr. Herrin presented Will McCleary with a 10-pound boy last Tuesday.—S. Dunbar sold to J. W. Bright 100 shocks of fodder at 20c. G. A. Swinebrol sold to Marsh Harris his fodder for 25c and feeds it for him.—Mr. E. A. White is visiting relatives at Hustonville. Mr. Aaron S. Ball is driving the stage past here now while Mr. Harris is on the pony list.—J. C. Eubanks & Bro. will ship one load of their mules Monday. James Robinson shipped a load of 1,300-pound fat cattle to Cincinnati last Saturday and reports the market rather slow.—The property of B. F. Engleman, deceased, was appraised Thursday and will be sold by Sam Harris privately as he thinks best.—J. W. Swope is moving to Boyle county. Mrs. James Engleman has been on the grip list for a few days.—C. P. Underwood bought some shots of Sam Alcorn at 3c. D. N. Prewitt bought some of Charley Adams, weighing 100 pounds at 3c.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—PAINE-TATE.—As if to smile his benison on the union of two loving hearts, the sun, after having been hidden by clouds for nearly two weeks, came out in all his splendor Wednesday morning and made the snow-covered earth dance in brightness and beauty. It was Miss Lucy Grundy Tate's wedding day and at 9 o'clock she was joined after God's holy ordinance to the man of her choice, Mr. Charles Hamilton Paine, of Boston.

The ceremony was performed in the decorated and artificially illuminated parlors of the handsome home of Mr. W. P. Tate, the father of the bride, and was beautifully assisted in its performance by Rev. W. L. Williams. The groom's best man, Mr. W. H. Chipman, of Boston, stood during the ceremony with Miss Dollie Williams, of Nicholasville, and Mr. Clarence E. Tate, of Philadelphia, the brother of the bride, with Miss Mattie VanDevere, of Stanford. The bride was a poem of beauty and loveliness, in a white gown of broad-embossed Canton crepe trimmed in seed pearls, with court train of heavy corded silk. A bridal veil and orange blossoms completed the beautiful ensemble.

She bore herself gracefully through the ceremony and gave the man who had won her further reason to be proud of his conquest. The bridesmaids were also very lovely in white French crepe en train. The groom and the groomsmen wore the regulation black suits of the latest design.

Hearty congratulations and good wishes were showered on the happy pair and then came an invitation to breakfast. It had been prepared by the noted caterer, Gilcher, of Danville, and was complete in all its appointments. The tables were beautifully dressed and the menu served in many courses, was enjoyed for an hour or more. Then after a change of dress, Mr. and Mrs. Paine took a carriage for Junction City and as they drove away many an old shoe was thrown after them for good luck, figuratively if not literally. They will go to the elegant home prepared for the bride in Roxbury, a residence portion of Boston, stopping at Cincinnati, Cleveland and several points in New York en route.

The groom is a member of the banking and brokerage establishment of Paine, Webber & Co., Boston, and is a gentleman of fine personal appearance and an accomplished business man. He belongs to an old and distinguished family, which traces its lineage away back to England, with its coat of arms. He has demonstrated his good sense in the choice he has made, for his bride is as lovely and as lovable as she is refined and cultivated, her father sparing none of his large estate to gratify her every desire and give her the most liberal literary and musical education. It was while attending the Boston Conservatory of Music that she met Mr. Paine, when a regular, old-fashioned case of love at first sight resulted, and which has just ended so happily. The writer, who has always felt a peculiar interest in this young girl, wishes that her life may be one of unending happiness and that she and her husband may live and love to a ripe old age.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome and costly presents, including a magnificent diamond and pearl necklace from the groom. Her trousseau is very large and the ladies tell us, embraces many stylish and beautiful gowns.

The guests were limited to a few close relatives and personal friends and were, besides the home folks, as follows: Mrs. Albert Paine, Mrs. W. W. Everts, Miss Margaret Everts and Mr. W. H. Chipman, of Massachusetts; Misses Nannie Banghman, Minnie Dinwiddie, Mattie VanDevere, Julia Peyton, Dollie Williams, Lizzie Bright, Julia Prewitt, and Messrs. P. M. McRoberts, J. S. Wells and J. H. Banghman. The bridal bouquet was a thing of beauty and from it each guest wore away a souvenir, which will be pressed and kept after they have done their present offices.

As originally arranged, the wedding was to have been a very elaborate affair, with ceremony at the Christian church and a large reception at the bride's home at night, but the severe illness of Miss Ida Prewitt, of Jeffersonville, Ind., a cousin of the bride, who was taken sick after arriving here, caused a change of programme and the recall of the 700 invitations sent out. The attendants selected for the church wedding were Miss A.elaide Hodgkin, of Winchester, maid of honor, and Misses Romaine Braden, Louise Bailey, Nannie Banghman, Lizzie Bright and Ida Prewitt, in addition to the two who acted. The gentlemen attendants selected, besides Messrs. Chipman and Tate, were Hon. Proctor Thayer, of North Adams, Mass.; Robert W. Short, of Washington; O. N. Shaw, of Boston; P. M. McRoberts, J. H. Banghman and J. S. Wells, of Stanford. The groom and his friends were to come in a special car and the next morning after the wedding they were to entertain in their car the friends at breakfast. It was all arranged very handsomely, but the best laid plans were thwarted by an unforeseen and very regrettable circumstance.

—The marriage of Bruce Haldeman, of the Courier-Journal, one of the brightest newspaper men in the State, and Miss Annie Milton, one of the prettiest girls in Louisville, was quietly solemnized Wednesday night. The INTERIOR JOURNAL, with the army of Mr. Hal-man's friends, sends its congratulations and best wishes.

—Miss Julia Rice and Mr. Curtis F. Park, of Madison, were married Wednesday by Rev. Milton Elliott.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—Misses Lizzie Sowder and May Adams are seriously ill with influenza.

—A night telegraph office has been opened at Pittsburgh and the one at East Bernstadt closed.

—We are told that the recent heavy sleet did not show up in the neighborhood of Sinks and Livingston at all.

—The following are attending the World's Fair convention at Louisville: G. W. McClure, Abel Pennington and Hugh Miller.

—Mr. Jack Redmon, for some years railroad agent at Parksville, has been promoted to a position in the train dispatcher's office at Paris.

—Mr. Henry Wood, of Disputanta, in this county, procured license Tuesday and is to be married to Miss Eliza Stuart, of Wildlife, one day this week.

—In the south western portion of the county is an oil spring that sends out about two barrels of good lubricating oil daily. This flow has been going on for some time and it would be to the interest of oil men to investigate.

—Mr. John McMullin is dangerously ill with the prevailing sickness. Mrs. Sarah Welsh, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Linton, in Louisville, is ill with grip. Mr. H. C. Weber, whose business house has lately moved from Knoxville to Chattanooga, was with us a few days since. He is traveling in this State for his firm.

—The richest man in a neighboring county was placed on the block at one time to be sold as a vagrant, and was rescued by friends, who thought to give him another chance. They gave him a purse, which he exhibited when placed upon the block. This was the turning point of his life. He took his family and tramped through to the county where he now lives and owns more acres of land than any other two men in his adopted county and is well provided with everything needful.

—Four weeks ago one of our citizens, who had read considerable about the Keeley cure for drunkenness and taking much interest in the matter, desired to test the virtues of the medicine, and gained the consent of Pat Welsh, a young man living at this place, to undergo a course of treatment. Through a correspondence with the doctors at Dwight, Ill., it was ascertained that the medicine would be sent out for home treatment, where any one desired it. Accordingly two half pint bottles of the bichloride of gold was ordered and received, costing $9.40, with directions for treatment. Dose, a teaspoonful six times per day. The patient here had been addicted to the use of liquor for seven or eight years. On the third day after beginning the use of the medicine Pat could not bear the smell of whisky and his desire for liquor has passed entirely away. It is a great discovery and the greatest temperance worker the world ever saw. Other slaves to the awful habit here will soon follow in the footsteps of the rescued patient, who has just passed from darkness to light.

PUBLIC SALE.

A SMALL BOYLE COUNTY FARM. On Feb. 10, 1892, at 10 o'clock a.m. I will offer at public sale my Farm of 68 acres, 2½ miles from Danville on the Stanford pike. The land is in a good state of cultivation; moderately improved, and will make a good home. Sale positive. W. T. WARD.

H. T. BUSH, REAL ESTATE AGENT, Stanford, Ky.

I have quite a number of FARMS for sale of the very best lands in Lincoln county. These farms are all well improved and good rich lands, running in size from 50 to 500 acres. Considering their location, their richness and fertility of soil, the convenience of turning out of great roads that bring markets right to our door, they are cheaper than the lands of any other county in the State. There is scarcely a Farm in the county over 2 miles from a depot.

The county is checked with turnpikes running in every direction. There is not a public road entering the county that is not macadamized. We have the Knoxville Branch of the L. & N. R. R. dividing the county from East to West and the C. & O. R. R. from North to South; the K. C. & R. R. from this place to Cincinnati, crossing the C. & O. at Winchester, giving full access to the markets of the whole world. Besides, we have three large flour mills in the county that give us a market for all our grain right at home; and the development of the mountain regions of Eastern and South-eastern Kentucky by railroads and the outlet south by railroads has created such a demand for all kinds of cereals and provender that we can scarcely retain enough for home consumption.

The people are prosperous, generous and kind, believing in Christianity and education. There is not a neighborhood in the county but has a good church and school-house. Every seat of Lincoln is a prosperous little city of about 2,500 inhabitants and is the great doorway from the North and Northeast South and from the Northwest to Southeast, and standing as it does gazing right into the bosom of the undeveloped mountains of Southeastern Kentucky backed up by the whole Blue Grass region of the State with railroads running through it to all points of the compass, makes it naturally one of the best located towns in the South for manufacturing and other enterprises of magnitude. Water Works are now being agitated and right about the town about three-fourths of a mile there could be erected Water Works with very little cost that would supply a city of 100,000 inhabitants with the purest and best water in the world. Our little city has been newly rebuilt in the last few years and its business houses and residences will compare with larger cities of greater pretensions. Our merchants and tradesmen are all prosperous and doing well. We have two banks with a capital stock of $500,000 that are prosperous and in a good condition.

We have splendid schools. We have a Female College, a large brick building, with over 100 pupils in attendance and under the principality of Prof. J. M. Hubbard, is in a flourishing condition. We also have a Seminary that is a good school, with Prof. B. E. Blakeman as its head. We have one of the best Public School buildings in this section of the State, with over 100 pupils in attendance, and with other good private schools, you see our facilities are excellent.

We have elegant church buildings, representing every denomination, with a full corps of ministers every talent and are doing a better business than any class of men in the city.

I have tried to make this statement as facts, without any exaggeration or coloring, as those who know and see it and those who would like to buy pleasant homes at fair prices and locate among a good people with all the best surroundings, will want to call and see me before purchasing elsewhere.

HUSTONVILLE.

—We are indebted to Crown Prince Russell for a gasp of relief in his official announcement of the Plumed Knight's inability to oppose the "Old Man" in the approaching tournament, which leaves him a walk-over and our republican friends no solicitude except about democratic indiscretions.

—Well, should Ohio establish her claim of a strip of Indiana 12 miles wide, to be made good to the Hoosier State by a like strip taken from Illinois, we shall have the comfort of repelling with indignation the charge that New York and other aspiring villages were beaten in their scramble for the World's Fair by a lot of suckers, for Chicago will lapse to Indiana. But will this adjustment come within the scope of extraordinary diplomacy, or result in a counterpart of Kansas' late war? Let us have a peaceful settlement, for the air is still murky from late warlike indications.

—Our coasting and toboggan slides were never so inviting as the past week or ten days and the local supply of Hungarian and hob nails was greatly short of the extraordinary demand, that sinners might continue to "stand on slippery places." The oldest, and usually unreliable, reminiscent oracles cannot accurately recall a slippery spell of longer duration than this last one, but memory of past seasons is as misleading as are the nose, ears and fingers as a test of temperature, especially when the wind comes from the north. Travel has been almost entirely suspended and Madame Grundy has of necessity put in the past week patching, toeing and healing old hose, looking over back-numbers and wondering what on earth is going on. Then's us.

—Nearly two years ago Dr. B. F. Johnson, a Central Illinois farmer, of greater sagacity, culture, patriotism, modesty and unselfishness than the average contributor to our agricultural periodicals, was first to suggest in Home and Farm a universal free mail delivery, and President Harrison, in his last message, commends the matter to Congress, almost literally in Dr. Johnson's original suggestion. That farmers should be compelled to send four and five miles for their mail, pay for a box and wait their turns about a crowded outdoor delivery—and occasionally receive their papers reduced by ear wheels to convenient shot gun wadding—is hardly fair, whilst city residents comfortably build fires and have their mails daily brought to their doors. Instead of a further reduction of postage, which will insure a deficiency, let's have the appropriation for improved mail transportation and free delivery, which will naturally insure to largely increased circulation of first class periodicals like the INTERIOR JOURNAL, Louisville Times, St. Louis Republic, Arena and Forum, the general improvement of mankind. A comprehension of how the manufacturers instead of the consumers pay the tariff (?) will greatly increase postal business and profits, in a word, prove the farmers' millennial harbinger, and lift our present fourth-rate post office from the low scale of sinecures to one of emoluments and honor.

MCKINNEY.

—Grip caused your scribe to lay aside the quill last week.

—J. Mc. Hubble was summoned last Tuesday by telegram to the bedside of his sick father, who lives in Pulaski county.

—J. K. Carson has moved to the Slade property, east of the depot, while a Mr. Hughes, of Jumbo pattern, occupies the property vacated by Carson.

—Prof. W. F. Niles, formerly of this county, but late of Parkville, is here visiting old friends. W. R. Cress is at tending court at Somerset this week.

—Madame Rumor is whispering it that a certain young gentleman, who is well-known at the Commercial Hotel, will soon lead to the Hymeneal altar a fair lady of the southern part of Lincoln.

—W. R. Cress, assisted by Miss Della Gooch, closed their school at this place on the 8th and gave an entertainment on the night of the 9th, which was a success in every particular.

—The Baptist church at this place and Middleburg have jointly called Rev. Price, of Nashville, Tenn., to preach for them the ensuing year. Bro. Price is a divine of some note and has the reputation of being an eloquent, forcible speaker and the people expect to be favored with excellent sermons at this place twice each month.

—Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Davidson are visiting their sons in Mercer county. Misses Eliza Cud and Pattie Johnson, of Junction City, have returned home after a short visit to friends at this place. W. J. Duncan, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel (?), visits Kingsville quite often. John Fry, Jr., who has been spending the holidays with relatives in this county, left Monday for his home in the Lone Star State. John O. Gooch, of Waynesburg, was here Monday on business. E. O. Singleton, in company with his brother, Ashford, left Monday on No. 7 for Northern Alabama, where they will engage in business.

—The I. J. was short several copies on last Friday. What is wrong, Bro. Walton? The post-master says the blame is elsewhere. [We can't imagine how it could be here. Ed.]

—Givens-Estes. It is a little late, but we couldn't send this item earlier: On last Tuesday at high noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. J. Walker Givens and Miss Florence Estes, were quietly married, in the presence of the family and a few close friends. The bride and groom are both excellent people and they have the hearty good wishes of a host of friends. The happy pair left on the 1:05 p. m. train for Lexington, Miss., to spend a few weeks of their honeymoon, while the groom will also dispose of three car-loads of mules.

—Mr. W. M. Duddar made a flying trip to Middleburg a few days ago.

—We are pleased to have Rev. A. V. Sizemore give us his monthly sermons at White Oak, which are indeed interesting.

—Edgar, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Eubanks, was severely scalded a few days ago by upsetting a kettle of boiling water.

—The many friends of Mrs. Jandann regret her death. She was an excellent neighbor and had made a host of friends. She was a daughter of Mr. Jno. Gooch, near Rowland.

—A lady a few nights ago, as she was comfortably seated in a willow rocker, knitting on a big pair of socks, exclaimed, as she carefully unfolded the Evening Journal, on observing the columns very closely: "Great Heavens! look at the Stanford boys who want to get married! and gracious alive! who would have thought it? Here is that popular young clerk at McRoberts' on the programme!"

Put some heated olive oil into a small bottle, drop in a piece of phosphorus, cork it up, carefully and put in a safe place. Any time the cork is removed for a few seconds and then replaced a powerful light will be given out by the bottle, which will last several minutes, and again be renewed at any moment by pulling out the cork. —Rohoboth Sunday Herald

A mother was calling the attention of her little boy to the moon, which was to be seen clearly but pathetically, in the early afternoon. "Why can't you see the moon in the day time?" replied the young man. "Oh, yes you can there it is over there." The little fellow looked and he noticed the fact that he saw it, but he added: "Ain't lighted, anyhow." —Babyhood.

WEAK IN THE KNEES.

A Physical Peculiarity That Hampers Woman in the Race with Man.

The difference of weight in the brains of men and women has long been a source of deep interest to all who discourse of equality and rights, says the Medical Record, of New York. Those extra ounces remain more or less a stumbling block to the unwary. Metaphysical justice refuses to regard them other than iniquitous. Yet certain structural differences escape such close scrutiny, notably that of the knee.

The structure of the knee, feminine constitutes in itself a permanent disability for many masculine pursuits. The knee joint in women is a sexual characteristic, as Dr. Ely Van de Warker long ago pointed out. Viewed in front and extended, the joint in but slight degree intercepts the gradual taper into the leg. Viewed in a semi-fixed position, the joint forms a smooth, ovate spine. The reason of this lies in the smallness of the patella in front and the narrowness of the articular surfaces of the tibia and femur, and which in man form the lateral prominences, and this is much more perfect as part of a sustaining column. Muscles designed to keep the body fixed upon the thighs in an erect position labor under the disadvantage of shortness of purchase owing to the short distance—compared to that of man—between the crest of the ilium and the great trochanter. A man has a much longer purchase in the leverage existing between the trunk and extremities than a woman. The feminine foot, comparatively speaking, is less able to sustain weight than that of man, owing to its shortness and the more delicate structure of the tarsus and the metatarsus. Women are not well constructed to stand many hours consecutively and every day. It is safe to affirm that they have instinctively avoided certain fields of skilled labor on purely anatomical grounds, in which the smaller quantity of brain substance proves less an adverse factor than the shallow pelvis, the peculiarity of the knee and the delicate nature of the foot. These, as parts of a sustaining column, undeniably leave something to be desired. Even the right to vote would not confer on womankind the right to be soldiers. Equality, it appears, is quite as much an affair of the knees as of brains.

SALLY LUNN.—Mix a quart of flour with a teaspoonful of salt and a tablespoonful of sugar, in which rub a tablespoonful of butter and an Irish potato, mash fine add half a teaspoon of yeast and tree well beaten eggs, with warm water to make a soft dough. Knead half an hour, let rise, handle lightly, put in a cake mold and bake in a hot oven.

THE CHOCTAWS' HEREAFTER.

An Indian Idea of the Life Beyond the Present.

From their earliest traditions the Choctaws have been taught to believe in a life after they leave this world. They believe that the spirit, the moment that it leaves the body, is compelled to travel a long distance to the west, until it arrives at an immense chasm, at the bottom of which flows a very rapid, rocky, and dangerous stream. This terrible gorge, which is surrounded on every side by great mountains, the soul has to cross on a "long and slippery pine log with the bark peeled off," the only passage to the "happy hunting grounds," which lie beyond the dangerous bridge. On the bank of the stream, just on the other end of the log, there always stand six persons, who have reached the "happy hunting grounds," and who throw sharp rocks at whoever attempts to cross the treacherous log the moment the middle of it is reached. Those who have lived properly, according to the Indian idea of morals, have no trouble in crossing the log; the stones fall harmlessly from them, and they reach the "happy hunting grounds," where there is perpetual day, without difficulty. There the trees are ever green, the sky cloudless, and the breezes always gently blowing; there, too, a continuous feast and dance are going on; the people never grow old, but live forever and revel in perpetual youth. The wicked, when they attempt to cross the dangerous bridge, can see the stones which are thrown at them, and in trying to avoid them they will fall from the giddy height into the awful gorge thousands of feet below the slippery log; where a rushing boiling stream is tumbling over the great sharp rocks, filled with dead fish and animals which are continually brought around to the same place by the eddies and whirlpools. There all the trees are dead, the waters infested by poisonous snakes, toads, and other repulsive looking reptiles, the dead are always hungry, but have nothing to eat; are always sick, but never die. There is no sun, and the wicked are constantly "climbing up by thousands on the sides of a high rock, from which they can overlook the beautiful country of the good hunting grounds, the abode of the happy, but can never reach it." —[Boston Transcript.]

The Harvard Athlete.

The athlete in a recitation is very amusing. When he enters some admirer usually whispers his confidence: "Look at —, isn't he a dandy?" The athlete always looks too large for his chair in the class room. You wonder why it does not break down. The boy, too, seems all out of place in his big hands, and a pencil too positively funny as he handles it. He wears an air of patronage, as if intellectual pursuits were well in their way, and a thing to be encouraged, even interesting on occasions, but just a little unworthy a man of muscle.

He likes to stretch out his big limbs, and watch them in repose, knowing how much they can do when occasion requires. The professor even defers to him a little, unable to refuse his instinctive homage to power—even though it be physical. When he strolls across the yard men look out of their windows after him. He is pointed out to the young lady visitors, and the fair creatures look with awe on the god-like being whom they have seen battling in mud and gore for the honor of Harvard in the superhuman fashion.

The athlete during his season of activity does not study much. He has to reserve his energies for physical effort. He can neither smoke nor drink. About all that is left him is to talk athletics, and for this purpose he can get plenty of listeners. But when 4 o'clock in the afternoon comes then he is in his element. And from 4 to 6 he toils away like a young giant.

Storing Sunshine for Use.

"Hi! Jimmy! Come down here. Let's set on the bridge and go round when she turns."

This from a 10 year old street boy standing on the approach to a bridge over the Erie Canal in an interior city. The person addressed was a fellow street boy standing on a raised foot bridge over the same muddy waterway. He was no older than his companion and full as ragged. He was lame and carried a crutch, but he had his compensation in a philosophy of contentment that old Horace might have envied.

He stood upon the foot bridge and answered:

"Now. Can't. Got t' stay here." "Aw, come on down. What d'ye hang up there for? Lots o' fun swingin' around here. We kin git on a boat and go over the aqueduct an' then ride back on another. Aw, come on down." "Now; can't do it."

"Why not? W at yer wants ter fool 'round up there for? Ain't no fun up there."

"Wal," was the answer that Jimmie drawled out with as solemn a face as a cadet on parade, "I can't come down no-how. I've got to stay up here and soak in all the sunshine I can so as I kin laugh when it rains."

A Heaven Sent Gift.

There is in the office of the Merchants' National Bank of Kansas City, a fragment of a meteor which has a peculiar history.

A farmer in Western Kansas had borrowed more money on his farm than he found himself able to repay. While meditating over his bad fortune, but, with the usual energy of the Kansas farmer, still tilling his soil, he turned up this meteoric stone, and examined it, but discovered nothing peculiar in its make up until a relative from the East, who was visiting him, noticed it and told him it was of great value.

The farmer communicated with Professor John Hay, State Geologist at Junction City, Kan., who visited the place and confirmed the opinion of the relative and caused collectors of such stones to compete for its purchase.

It was sold for a sum largely in excess of the amount required to redeem his home from the money lender.

Italian Fashionable Society.

During a visit to the south of Italy, a young Englishman was introduced to a fashionable gathering by a Neapolitan cavalier. While there he had his gold snuffbox taken from him. Next day he was at another evening party, when to his surprise he saw a gentleman present take out his stolen snuffbox and help himself to a pinch. He quickly strode up to his friend and said:

"The gentleman over yonder is taking snuff out of the very box that was stolen from me yesterday; do you happen to know him?"

"Hush!" answered the cavalier in a tone of warning: "he is a person of high rank."

"What do I care?" exclaimed the Englishman. "I want my snuffbox back and mean to call him to account!"

"Come, don't let us have a row!" gently entreated his friend; "leave the matter to me. I will get the snuffbox for you."

At these words the Englishman "simmered down" and went home. On the following day, sure enough, his friend brought him the stolen article.

"How did you recover it?" inquired the Englishman.

"Nothing of the sort!" said his friend, with a laugh. "I wished to avoid a disturbance, and therefore I simply stole it back again from him." —Illustrated Familien Kalender.

Brother Jack's Idea.

Fair Cousin—Why, this is only your studio!

De Auber—Of course; and what did you expect?

F. C.—Why, Brother Jack said if we visited you you'd probably show us your "Chamber of Horrors." —From the German.

Strange Adventures of a Cat.

In some manner a cat found its way into a cyclorama building several days ago. The man in charge attempted to chase the trespassing feline through the door, but the cat evidently thought there was a better way of escaping the rising temper of the irate man. It looked cautiously about, as if to avoid stepping on the prostrate forms of heroes slain in battle. Finally its eyes caught sight of a tree. A projecting limb hung very low, and here the cat thought to find a place of safety. It gave one leap, and no doubt was the most disgusted cat in Portland when it landed by sad experience that the tree was on the canvas. It picked itself up and slowly slunk through the door, down the stairs and out of the building. —Portland Press.

Those Terrible Children.

George and his little sister were playing in the dining room when a gentleman, who was an intimate friend of the family, appeared at the door.

"What are you doing, children?" he asked.

"Oh," said George, "we have been playing at papa and mamma."

"And how did you do that?"

"Oh, easy enough. I sat down at this end of the table and said, 'This beefsteak is not fit to eat.' Then Alice answered, 'It's good enough for you.' Then I swore a lot and she threw a napkin on the floor and went up stairs. That's how." —New York Herald.

A Powerful Player.

"That is Orpheus," said the young man; "he was a wonderful musician. He was such a forceful player as to move trees and stones."

"So?" replied the old gentleman, looking at the statue in a contemplative mood. "not so bad, but you never heard that cousin of yours play. She's only a puny little thing, but they do say she's made no less than twenty whole families move, and I guess it's no more'n the truth." —Boston Transcript.

A Sympathetic Parson.

"What sort of a preacher is Parson Surplus Eel?" asked a newly arrived stranger in a Texas town.

"Oh, he is a very fair preacher."

"Is he a sympathetic preacher?"

"You bet he is. He never attempts to preach without exciting general sympathy—it's such hard work for him to do it." —Texas Siftings.

One Eyed Man—I am, sir.

A GRAND INVESTMENT

for every Family and School.

The Authentic Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, comprising issues of 1864, '79, and '84, (all still copyrighted) has been thoroughly revised and enlarged, under the supervision of Noah Porter, D.D., LL.D., of Yale University, and as a distinguishing title, bears the name WEBSTER'S.

The work of revision occupied over ten years, more than a hundred editorial laborers being employed, and over $300,000 expended before the first copy was printed.

Everybody here is praising to the skies Mr. Cleveland's speech at the St. Jackson's day banquet of the New York Business Men's Association. Many think it the best speech the ex-president ever delivered. Here is a passage that sounds eminently Jacksonian: "We hold to the doctrine that party honesty is party duty and party courage is party expediency." And speaking of Jackson and Cleveland, a gentleman related to me this morning the following: "When the republicans were trying to steal the vote of New York in 1884, Cleveland, then governor, was waited on by an eminent democrat then in Congress. The two discussed the situation and the president-elect said: 'I believe I am elected, and it seems as though a conspiracy is on foot to count the republican ticket in. If Mr. Blaine has carried New York he shall have the vote of the State; if on the other hand, as I believe, I have carried it, I intend to have it. When it is made clear that I am counted out it will be time for me to act, and I will act.' His visitor said that as he pronounced the last words his jaws came together with a snap and a look of fixed determination came into his eyes that satisfied him that if Cleveland was really elected he would be president." Mr. McKinney, of New Hampshire, said this morning that if the democrats would nominate Cleveland he would be as certain to carry his State, Rhode Island and Connecticut as he was to carry any Northern State and that Massachusetts would be as doubtful as any other State. He declared that Cleveland could get more votes in New York than any other candidate and that even if that were not true, he could be elected without New York. "Give us Cleveland," said he, "and a tariff for revenue and the honest dollar for issues and New England becomes a democratic community."—Savoyard in Courier-Journal.

"Do you love him, Mabel?"

There was an unmistakable ring of triumph in the proud father's voice as he addressed the question to the beautiful, queenly girl, who stood with downcast eyes before him.

"Yes," she answered softly, the rich blood mantling her cheek and brow.

"I have told him," rejoined the father, "that I shall interpose no obstacles in his way. If he can win your affections he has my full and free consent. I may say to you, further, my daughter," he continued, "that in gaining the love of a young man like Harold Billmore you have made a conquest that gratifies my pride as a father and commends itself to my judgment as a man. He is of good family, upright, honorable, high-minded, the possessor of a competence and in all respects the one whom above all others I should have chosen as a guardian of my only daughter's happiness."

"Yes, papa," she replied, he face lighting up with a smile, "he's a corker."

REWARD OF MERIT.—"Jacobs," said the managing editor of the great daily paper, wearily, "what is the name of our man down at Squareville?"

"His name is Bohackus," answered the assistant.

"How much are we paying him?"

"Something like $40 a month."

"Raise his salary, 50 per cent.," said the managing editor. "That's all, Jacobs. You can go."

Mr. Bohackus, of Squareville, was the only one of several hundred telegraphic correspondents who had not begun his special telegram to the Daily Thunderbolt the night before in these words: "The election has passed off quietly."—Chicago Tribune.

DON'T FOR PREACHERS.—Don't preach politics.

Don't pray to your congregation.

Don't try to frighten people into Heaven.

Don't let your sermons exceed 30 minutes in length.

Don't spring a collection on a congregation unawares.

Don't devote all your time to the saving of female souls.

Don't neglect the great sins in running down the small ones.

Don't treat a rich man's sins as if his money would save him.—Detroit Free Press.

"How does it happen," inquired the stranger, "that all the improvements are being made on this one street?" "It doesn't happen at all, sir," replied the citizen who was showing him about the village majestically. "This is the street I live on. I am president of the town board, sir."

"Marriage has not changed him much," said Mrs. Potts. "Before we were married he would not let me carry the lightest bundle—and he does not now. He lets me lug the heavy ones!" Indianapolis News.

President Harrison has learned by costly experience that the quickest way to make a man hot under the collar is to give him a cold shoulder.—Atlanta Journal.

PLEDGES DON'T DECEIVE HER.—There is, however, one individual who is never deceived by the vows of the man who swears off. I refer to his wife, which fact is beautifully illustrated in the following touching lines of an unidentified poet:

I will not drink, I will not smoke,
I will not swear, I will not joke,
I will not churchily duties dodge,
I will not "hang up" at the lodge.
I will not—let me see. A few
More things I will not do—
She fancied she was on the hedge,
And chipped in, "You will not keep your pledge." —Texas Sittings.

APPROPRIATE NAMES.—"So you have got twins at your house?" said Mrs. Bezum to little Johnny Sainelson.

"Yes, mam, two of 'em."

"What are you going to call them?"

"Thunder and Lightning."

"Why those are strange names to call children."

"Well, that's what pa called 'em as soon as he heard they were in the house." —Texas Sittings.

—On a wager a couple of New York brokers made an interesting experiment with the cable. A cablegram was sent from the stock exchange to London and an answer returned in four minutes. The usual time is much longer, but an especial effort was made with the above remarkable result. About 900 cablegrams are sent from New York daily at 25 cents a word, but as cypher is used the cost is reduced to the minimum.

Stranger—This tree seems to be loaded with apples.

Rural Miss—Yes sir, papa says this is a good year for apples.

Stranger—I am glad to hear that. Are all your trees as full of apples as this one?

Rural Miss—Oh, no; only the apple trees.

THE BATTLE CRY OF FREEDOM.—If Congress passes bills to put wool, bind twine, iron ties, ores and other necessities and raw materials on the free list, this year's democratic campaign will be made under a "battle cry of freedom," and that battle cry is usually a winning one in this republic.—New York World.

HOW TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE.—Take six tablespoonfuls of freshly ground coffee for six after-dinner cups of coffee. Put in the filter of a French coffee-pot and pour on gradually a pint and three-quarters of thoroughly boiling water. Cover and let it infuse, but not boil. Prepare about five minutes before serving.

"There would be no doubt as to the meaning of Cleveland's election," says the Galesburg, Ill., Spectator (Dem.) "It would mean that taxes must come down, that strict economy must prevail; that the administration of affairs must be clean, able and absolutely fair. What more does democracy mean?"

"She was a good girl," said Mrs. DeKadenz, "and not only understood her duties, but knew her place. I had to let her go though. I have been studying Fido's character rather closely, and I really believe that blondes are distasteful to the dear angel."—Indianapolis Journal.

HOW ALLAN HOPES TO FLY.

His Machine Will Bore a Hole in the Air and of Course Go Up the Hole.
In an up stairs room in the Western House at Ballard has been developed within the past eight months what in the opinion of men of sound judgment will prove, if practical, the invention of the age.

Mr. William Allan, a real estate broker and a former employee of the West Coast Improvement Company, has nearly completed the model of an aerial ship or flying machine. It consists of two oval or cigar shaped bodies with tapering ends, the smaller suspended within the larger. Around the larger an immense thread of stiff canvas, or some other strong but light material, winds spirally from end to end. Within the smaller body is situated the propelling power, which by means of a set of pulleys, bands, wheels, etc., revolves the interior oval body, and as it moves so it causes the larger machine on the exterior to move with correspondingly greater velocity.

The theory which William Allan has held and reasoned upon for the last 20 years is this: A screw by revolution forces itself through wood, so Mr. Allan concluded if he could invent a machine with threads large enough to revolve in the atmosphere it will travel through space and with great rapidity on the same principle. If Mr. Allan be not a deluded inventor one may travel in this machine in any direction, with almost any speed desired, and with perfect safety, by means of steering apparatus and a speed regulator which are attached and under the control of the aeronaut within the bowels of the invention. If this invention proves practical, and Mr. Allan thinks it will, railroads and ocean grayhounds will be easily distanced. The details of the machine can not be fully described, as only a working model has been constructed, and although Mr. Allan has obtained a caveat he does not wish to give away his secret until he has more substantial financial backing.

Mr. Allan has also constructed a huge unicycle, or, as some paradoxically call it, a one wheel bicycle. It is seventeen feet in circumference, and has a tire one foot wide. The cyclist stands in the center, and by moving his feet up and down on pedals turns a small wheel which revolves the larger one at the same time. As every revolution of the smaller wheel turns the larger it does a distance of seventeen feet every revolution. The unicycle is now in the yard of James McLachlan, a contractor and builder, who is putting the finishing touches upon it under Mr. Allan's supervision. It is expected a public trial of this invention will be made in a short time.

Recently, in conversation with a reporter, Ballard's inventor said: "There may be some skeptical people who deem my inventions impracticable, but the public thought Fulton was crazy when he was building the Clamont, and when Columbus was trying to convince the monarchs of Europe that another world existed even the children significantly pointed their fingers to their foreheads when he passed by. But there was no screw loose in Columbus's head, neither was there in Fulton's."—[Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

A Special Chance.

In connection with his army experience, Colonel Pat Gilmore, the famous musician, tells this story: "You see, we musicians who march to battle are really the only ones who are unprotected. We, of course, can handle no weapons and are at the mercy of bullets. To our duty of furnishing the inspiring strains to the marching soldiers we have another one—that of carrying off the wounded from the field on stretchers. In one of the battles we were on our way to the scene of action, when we met a soldier running away from the field.

"What is the matter?" I inquired, in chorus with several other of the musicians. The man hurriedly replied: "Oh, nothing at all. I'm only wounded in one of the fingers of my left hand. I'm off to have it dressed and will return again."

"But the light of inspiration had come to us. No unprotected march for us when our good angels had thrown such a good chance in our way. We seized the man and said, 'Get on the stretcher.' 'No, no,' he answered; 'only one of my fingers is hurt. I can get on faster myself. Why should I be carried? Do I walk with my hand? Let me go.'"

"We merely repeated the order, 'Get on the stretcher.' He didn't heed us, and again we said more emphatically, 'Get on the stretcher.' Seeing he was obdurate, we made a bodily seizure of him and put him forcibly on the waiting stretcher.

"Then we beat a hasty retreat with our burden. We carried him down a long hill to a place of safety and we took good care to place our wounded soldier in a distant place of security. How were we to help it if the battle was nearly over when we returned to the field? I always tell the generals with whom I fought that I was always in advance of them—in the rear."

Baroness Rothschild's Mission.

Baroness Rothschild, like the Baroness Burdett Coutts, has a self imposed "mission" in the miserable East End of London. She has built blocks of model tenement houses in the Whitechapel district, which are rented at the rate of three per cent on the investment. Adjacent to the model houses is an excellent "club and library" building, with billiard room and music room, open to all tenants on payment of a penny, and apparently it is generally preferred to the gin palaces.

He Feared She Could.

Little Brother—How much do you weigh, Mr. Dangle.
Dangle—About 150 pounds, my man. Why do you ask?
"I heard sister tell ma that she was going to throw you over her shoulders if Mr. Fangle proposed, but I don't believe she can do it, do you?"

HAZING THE HAZERS.

A Vermont and Another, Now a Senator, Who Were Equal to Emergencies.
"Talking of hazing," said a university club man the other evening in the hearing of a Kansas City Star reporter, "I'm here with some emphasis and accent to say it is not always a success. I was with a party of students once who, having set their academic hearts on hazing a rough and uncouth specimen from Vermont, repaired to his room about 11 o'clock one night to perform these rites. There were seven of the invaders, including myself, and we collected in the corridor outside the freshman's door. In order to be impressive in our entrance, at a given signal we hurried ourselves against the portal and burst it in. I recall a feeling of pride as the door went in at the success of this first step, but nothing distinctly afterward.

"In the dim religious light that sifted through the curtains from the swinging moon we beheld a long, spare, and meager being who flowed out of bed and fell upon us. He was silent as a bulldog, but quick and ferocious as a cat. I never saw such a creature. The whole affair did not last 10 minutes, and its close found myself and the other hazers battered and bruised and out in the hall.

"I thought only one man inhabited that room," said a sorrowful sophomore as he felt of his various features in an effort to measure the distance so far as he, personally, was affected. "There are at least 10, for I counted them, to say nothing of the large African gorilla which threw me out, and which I take it they maintain as a pet."

"There was no one in there, however, except that one Vermont, and he did not even attempt to close the door after us, such was his contempt for our prowess."

"We did not go back into his room. We could have gone, of course, but we saw that it would consume a great deal of time and the hour was late."

"Say, you Vermont man!" I said as we were about to leave. "I trust you are not mean enough to report this to the faculty?"

"Not at all," he said. "I like it. Come again any time you please."

"Another time," continued the raconteur, "a party of us had been out on that sacred night, Halloween, tearing off gates and signs, and other wise sporting ourselves after the fashion of college youth the world around. We had brought about a cord of broken store signs up to Jim Martin's room and were merrily burning them in his big fireplace. The ceremonies were at their height when two or three professors, expecting the movement by indignant townspeople, whose signs being ravished had followed us to the college gates, rapped loudly at the door for admission. Something had to be done, as it would never do to let in the professors and those broken evidences of our guilt around."

"A man by the name of Jack Nesbit, now a State senator in Nebraska, was equal to the pinch, however."

"It was a rule of the college that no professor should be denied entrance to a room, no matter the hour, unless the occupant was engaged in prayer. In event of the present progress of this religious exercise, the professor was made to wait until the 'amen,' and could in no wise complain."

"At the first rap Nesbit broke into prayer. In a loud sonorous tone he sought mercy for himself and his companions. Continuing, he beleaguered the throne of grace in behalf of the college, as well as the professors, singly and in a body. Next the students all came in for notice by name, and in bulk, as well as every attitude of the place to the small person who cleaned knives and forks in the kitchen. No one was slighted or overlooked. Then Nesbit went for the Government, and prayed for the nation at large; then the President and his pressing needs were named, and Divinity was pleaded with for their fulfillment; then all the departments and various officers of State, and when they were exhausted all the States beginning with Maine and ending with California were interceded for. After this Jack went to Europe, and beginning with England related the necessities of each government, and sought their satisfaction. From there he went to Asia, to Africa, then to South America, and so on, until he was drifting among the islands which dot the Southern seas. Meanwhile the rest of us turned stokers, and crowded the signs into the fireplace, where they roared and leaped almost to the limits of a general conflagration. Just as Jack was landing at Auckland the last splinter went up in smoke and the disgusted professors were let in. The prayer must have been almost an hour long, and as the teachers filed in Nesbit closed with some quotation from St. Mark which refers to those who, seeking a sign, shall find it not."

A Simple Ceremony.

The marriage ceremony practiced by the people of Borneo is very short and simple. Bride and groom are brought out before the assembled tribe with great solemnity, and seated side by side. A betel nut is then cut in two by the medicine woman of the tribe, and one half is given to the bride and the other half to the groom. They begin to chew the nut, and then the old woman, after some sort of incantation, knocks their heads together and they are declared man and wife.

SOME few of our customers have failed to settle their accounts to Jan. 1st, '92, and to such we would say we need the money. Sine & Menefee.

FOR RENT—House with five rooms and garden. Situated on Logans Creek, 1 1/2 miles from Rowland. Apply to A. T. Nunneley or T. L. Shelton.

CAPT. FRANK HARRIS says that the wrecker has not been out on this division since Nov. 6th. He isn't bragging, but if any other division can beat that record it can have the cake.

THE Shelby City precinct has a new democratic citizen, who is yet unable to exercise his right of franchise. He is Henry Lloyd Tevis, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Shelby Tevis, and arrived on Tuesday morning.—Advocate.

TO PUPILS OF COMMON SCHOOLS.—The examinations of candidates for certificates of graduation in a common school will be held this year on the 5th of February for whites and on the 6th for colored. Diplomas will be given to those who are successful. W. F. McClary, County Superintendent. By order of State Supt.

Go to the New Cash Store for your gents' and ladies' kid gloves, gents' and ladies' handkerchiefs, ladies' and gents' underwear, ladies' and gents' shoes, misses' and children's shoes and especially for all your towels, napkins and table cloths. We will open next week the finest line of gents' colored shirts ever opened in Stanford. J. S. Hughes.

STRAYED.—Red boar shoot. White face, slit in left ear. Any one seeing him please let me know. I. M. Brace.

JOE DOLLINS, the negro who cut Mit Embury and who gave Deputy Newland so much trouble to arrest him, was held in bail of $25 which he couldn't give.

MR. C. F. SHEPHERD, of Somerset, was up yesterday to bring Annie Young, a negress who was arrested in Somerset on a warrant charging her with stealing a watch from Mrs. Pennybacker, at Kingsville.

Go to the New Cash Store and see their stock of ladies' French suitings and Scotch homespuns in all the new Spring shades and their splendid line of black and solid colored dress goods. J. S. Hughes.

The Louisville Post is publishing a good deal of local matter from Stanford, which is sent by telegraph and printed while it is red-hot. The Post is a first-class paper generally and our people ought to appreciate its enterprise by giving it a large local list of subscribers.

THE snow and blizzard came as predicted and the mercury was down below 20° for three days. It was getting warmer yesterday, but while nearly all the snow had left the trees, the snow was still with us and sleighing was fine. Warmer, fair is the prediction till 8 p. m., to-day.

THE New Cash Store has just received a new line of Torchon and Val. Laces and Torchon Trimmings. All kinds of embroideries and white goods in plain, plaid and striped Indian, plain, plaid and striped Nainsooks, striped and printed dimities and a splendid assortment of lace curtains at all prices. John S. Hughes.

A YEAR or two ago Willard Teeters escaped from the jail guard here and has since kept himself scarce. Jailer Owens had him on his mind, however, and a few days ago succeeded in locating him in Louisville and having been arrested. Tuesday he went after him and he is now in jail here to await trial for cutting with intent to kill.

BLIND Tom gave one of his inimitable performances at Walton's Opera House Wednesday night and notwithstanding the prices were 75c and $1, the house was nearly filled by people who were more than satisfied with the investment. It is well worth anybody's time and money to see the performances of this most incomprehensible freak of nature.

IN a row the other night Mack Ferrell cut Bob Whitley, colored, and beat him over the head with a pistol. Mr. Ferrell was arrested and claims that he will have ample proof to exonerate himself when his trial comes up to-day. The trouble grew over a buggy and the whole matter is somewhat obscure. Whiskey cut a prominent figure in it, doubtless.

A YOUNG man who had never taken so pretty a girl to a public entertainment before, got so warm under the fire of the optics all around him that he excitedly jumped up and nearly pulled off his coat at the Opera House, Wednesday night, before he found that he had already taken off his overcoat. The laugh that the other boys gave him won't be forgotten soon.

THE Model Minstrels, which will perform here Monday night, Feb. 1, is thus spoken of by the Richmond, Va., Times: "There have been several high sounding and much advertised minstrel troupes here this winter, but the Model Minstrels, who came into the city without so much flourish of trumpets, is by far the best seen here for a long time. The hand balancing of C. H. Sweeney is wonderful, while Alvido as a juggler equals the best. Delmonio and Montcayo are contortionists whose bones seem to be made of rubber. The dancing is a strong feature, while "Fun on the Levee," that winds up the very enjoyable entertainment, is laughable to an extreme. The company is very large, comprising 30 men."

Card of Thanks.

Will you please allow me through your esteemed paper to express the gratitude of my heart to the friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness to me and mine in our recent sad bereavement. Words can but feebly express our grateful feelings towards those who showed such a desire to share our sorrow. D. McKIRK.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

—Cook.—Another godly mother has gone to her reward and another family is now feeling keenly an irreparable loss. Unacquainted with death, as the grim monster had not before entered this household, the once happy family of Mr. J. M. Cook is now burdened beyond expression with grief, because a loving and affectionate wife and mother has been called to leave them, even for the brighter shore. Mrs. Cook died at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning, after a two-weeks' illness of what was the termination of a spell of grip, which she suffered nearly a year ago, and of which she never entirely recovered. Up to Sunday last she was aware of her serious illness and often spoke of her willingness to die, regretting, of course, the bidding farewell to the dear ones, composing as happy a family as ever lived together, but since then she had been unconscious and the bereaved ones were deprived of the sad pleasure of saying the final good-bye. Mrs. Cook was 53 years old and had been a consistent member of the Christian church for years, having joined when a very small girl. She had been married 34 years, nearly to the day, and the anniversary of the union would have been celebrated had not she been so ill. Ten children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Cook, nine of whom survive her, as well as her aged mother, Mrs. America Bailey, who is now in her 90th year. Not until a few years ago had Mrs. Cook been inconvenienced by illness and in her youth was a remarkably handsome woman; in fact the couple were known as the handsomest in this section. Those who knew her well say that Mrs. Cook was one of the best women in the world, and was the possessor of a disposition that was amiability itself. Kind, loving and gentle, she was the light of the household and truly a mother and wife was never more worshipped than she. In a way Mrs. Cook was a philanthropist and her good deeds will live long after her. The needy never left her door empty handed and no wounded heart left her threshold without words of sympathy that helped the bleeding heart. She was a thorough woman of God and reared a large family that will stand as a monument to her good teachings. Her last words were, "My children, live as you would die and strive to meet me in Heaven." Blessed words! May they prove a balm to the wounded hearts and cause them to find comfort in the thought that she is happy with her God. After a funeral discourse at her home by Rev. W. L. Williams at 11 o'clock A. M. yesterday, the remains were gently conveyed to the Hustonville Cemetery, where all that is mortal of the loving wife, mother and friend was laid to rest. How changeable and how uncertain is life! Less than a month ago a bridal party left this home. To-day it is shrouded in mourning and the very winds seem to say in sadness, "Mother is dead." It is hard, very hard, to give her up, but may each of those most seriously afflicted by the blow be enabled to feel that she has only gone before, and live so as to meet her, a reunited family, in a land that is fairer than day.

—An infant son of Dr. J. T. Morris died yesterday of catarrh of the stomach.

—The Advocate records the deaths of Joseph S. Prewitt, of the Junction City neighborhood, aged 60; Addison Mitchell, of the West End, aged 73, and Thomas Gore, who for a long time kept the Gore House at Junction city, 74.

—James V. Escott, an old merchant of Louisville, who married a sister of Mr. W. N. Haldeman, died Monday and on that account the wedding of Mr. Bruce Haldeman and Miss Annie Milton, which was to have taken place in the Second Presbyterian church, was quietly solemnized at the residence of the bride's parents on the 20th.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Rev. A. V. Sizemore will preach at Logan's Creek church next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—Communion at the Presbyterian church Sunday at 11 A. M. Jan. 24. Cordial invitation to all God's children to participate.

—Rev. H. H. Kavanaugh, a well-known Methodist minister and for many years chaplain of the State prison, died of pneumonia in Frankfort.

—We have secured from Rev. Ben Helm the following report of Stanford Presbyterian church for 1891: Sermons preached by pastor 252; visits for the last eight months 210.

members on the 5th Sunday as an important matter will then be brought before the church.

—The interest in the union revival continues to increase and the attendance is larger since the services are held in the Presbyterian church. Nearly all the stores close in time to attend the song service, which begins at 6:30 and when this sacrifice of time and money is made it is a good sign that the merchants are becoming deeply interested. Revs. Helm, Arnold, Sizemore and Ellis preach in turn and in eloquent terms exhort the sinner to flee from the wrath to come. Great good has already been done and all good people are praying that it may prove a grand and glorious awakening of the Holy Spirit.

—The Revision of Faith Committee has eliminated the infant damnation clause of their confession of faith and substituted: "Infants dying in infancy and all other persons who are not guilty of actual transgression are included in the election of grace and are saved and regenerated by Christ, through the Spirit who worketh when and where and how He pleaseth. So also are all others elected, persons who are not outwardly called to the ministry of the Word." No prayers are hereafter to be made for the lead and on the subject of preterition the following was adopted: "The rest of mankind God saw fit, according to the unsearchable counsel of His will, whereby He extendeth or withholdeth mercy as He pleaseth, not to elect unto eternal life, and them hath He ordained to dishonor and wrath for their sins to the praise of His glorious justice. Yet hath He no pleasure in the death of the wicked, nor is it His decree, but the wickedness of their own hearts, which restraineth and hindereth them from accepting His grace made in the Gospel.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF STANFORD, KY.

Capital Stock.....$200,000

Surplus.....18,500

Attention of the public is invited to the fact that this is the only National Bank in Stanford. Under the provisions of the National Bank Act, depositors are secured not only by the capital stock, but by the stockholders' liability for an amount equal to the stock, so that depositors of this institution are secured by a fund of $600,000. Five sworn statements of the condition of the bank are made each year to the United States government, and its assets are examined at stated times by government agents, thus securing additional and perfect safety to depositors.

This institution, originally established as the Deposit Bank of Stanford in 1858, then re-organized as the National Bank of Stanford in 1865 and again re-organized as the First National Bank of Stanford in 1882, has had practically an uninterrupted existence of 35 years. It is better supplied with facilities for transacting its long and honorable career. Accounts of corporations, fiduciaries, firms and individuals respectfully solicited.

The Directory of this Bank is composed of

T. J. Foster, of Stanford;
Forester Reid, Lincoln county;
J. W. Hayden, Stanford;

HAPPY HAMLET.

Memories Awakened by a Bunch of Hyacinths. A Sweet Spoken Woman.

Old Bachelors. Distinction Between Talent and Genius.

More Baby Language.

A New Calendar.

When I went to my room last Saturday to pack my grip I found a pitcher of white hyacinths on the table and a note. "Please stay," it said. I stood a moment transfixed. The pale green, transparent pitcher—the passion vine that clasped it—the little note swinging from the flowers and the flowers themselves filling my room with fragrance—do you wonder that my trip betook itself into the future and I into the past? I took up one of the luxuriant bunches, went over to the west window, that was letting in the crimson glow of the sunset and gave myself up to memory. A thousand recollections, sweet and sorrowful, were about me. They smiled in at the pane, they dashed a tear upon my hand, they beckoned me off into the spirit realm and one pointed to a grave, green upon the green hillside. It was then my heart awoke itself and turning to the hyacinth, spoke:

Thou dream of love clothed in a shroud—

A joy and grief together bowed.

A little song beginning glad

That leaves the heart, when ended, sad—

Sad as a sea sigh in a shell;

You hint of Heaven, of angels tell.

And, oh! you come a date to keep.

And I have thought to make me weep.

So, I have staid, held by a hyacinth.

Is there anything in the world so beautiful to contemplate as a loving-hearted, sweet-spoken woman. One who closes her lips on gossip, looks defiantly at scandal, is courageous enough to shake her fist at a lie and that treads softly by one's frailties and follies? asked Mr. Love.

"Yes, there is just one more beautiful."

"What is it?" he enquired, aroused from his reverie.

"A loving man—one who loves though he loses and who looks sweetly, though sadly, on the little god, Cupid, even when Time is touching his hair and the yearning gone from his eyes."

Mr. Love did not speak. Why?

I know a place where five old bachelors are bunked together. If that many birds were so inclined there would be 20 less baby birds a year. Think of the lost music! But may be you like old bachelors. There is one at Stanford who arouses my deepest sympathy. His love for children amounts to almost a disease, but so long as he retains a little sentimentality I shall admire him. Not long ago I found myself in his den of law books face to face with a love letter from away off somewhere in the Old World. It told of the roseate peaks of the Jung Frau under the Switzerland dawn, of lakes, beautiful as "emeralds dissolved in sunbeams," of swans and a thousand thousand other foreign wonders. Now, I have but one impulse in lifting my veil before this bachelor and that is to keep him quiet. He is giving my letter a black eye—has intimated that I prevaricate, which he will not, do again. He and I have some memories that clasp hands. Old bachelor, be quiet, and very quiet.

Miss Prim says that elegant dressing is always symbolic of refinement and intellect and that those who know how to apparel themselves are generally getters of success in other particulars, but I don't know about that.

For I hardly needs to tell you how you've often come across

A fifty dollar saddle on a twenty dollar horse.

And workin' in the lowlands, you discover as you go

That the finest shuck may hide the meanest nubb in the row."

And she further stated that Mr. D. was a literary genius and when I disagreed with her she got red in the face and said he had climbed into all the newspapers, which was more than I had done. Well, what of that Miss Prim?

"The bantam chicken's awful fond of roosting pretty high.

And the t'key buzzard sails above the eagle in the sky.

You find a little minnows in the middle of the sea,

And the least kind of possum up the biggest kind of tree."

Miss Prim should make a distinction, between talent and genius. Talent is that which helps one to imitate what the genius creates. Mr. D. has never created anything but the big pump that gushes forth his opinion of himself. It works pretty nicely—the pump—until he endeavors to adjust it to his intellect, and then some way the chain clogs, the wheel gets cranky and won't go round and all we get is a big bulge of air and a few drops. I hate a pump. I love to go to a spring and dip up the bubbles or to a fountain that splashes the spray against my lips.

Well, what do you think, the authorship of these letters has been attributed to one of the most intellectual men in the State and they are but the effervescence of my most idle fancies.

A teacher asked his baby grammar class what was the plural of duck.

"Drake," said little Dan, making the whole school titter. But little Virginia is the cutest babe that I know. She it was who climbed into Aunt Jane's arms and observing the wavy places in her hair, said: "Your hair is wight full of winkies. Aunt Jane, you ought to get the iron and iron it out." And when her aunt told her that the wrinkles were in her face instead of her hair and that she was getting old, little Virginia said: "Why no you aint, Aunt Jane, I don't see any fown in your face."

Some one has sent me a calendar—four young blue birds are leaving the nest and their efforts to lift their baby wings are indeed interesting. But to know these four will never learn to fly, will always be just as they are, just as near 50 years from hence as now, is somewhat consoling.

"I had a nest full once of my own, Ah! happy, happy!

Right dearly I loved them, but when they were grown

They spread out their wings to fly."

And now a word to you, who are blubbering about the personalities in these letters. If the shoe doesn't fit don't wear it. Remember, the world is wide, my pen a pilgrim, and I—

"I do not own a strip of ground, Yet all I see is mine."

Household and farming utensils sold high.

—A. E. Handley bought in Marion 30 head of good feeders, 1,250 lbs. at $3 to $60. Wm. Calvert bought 9 two-year-old mules from James Knox and 11 from Y. N. Vermillion at $75 per head. Jesse and Monte Fox bought in Wayne county 75 head of slop cattle, 1,000 to 1,200 pounds average, at $2 to $3c. Will and John Baughman sold to W. B. Cecil a bunch of fat hogs at $3c. There was no stock and very few people here Monday.—Danville Advocate.

The silver in a silver dollar is now worth just 72 cents. Yet, as the amount coined is limited, it is kept, though with danger and difficulty, on a par with a gold dollar.

It is very plain that if the coinage were unlimited or free, it would be impossible to keep the silver dollar on a par with gold, and our $600,000,000 of gold currency would disappear. It would be hid in vaults and old stockings or be sent abroad, and the debased silver dollar would be the only substitute for the gold dollar.

The sudden withdrawal of $600,000,000 in gold from circulation would so contract the currency that a panic would ensue, and instead of more money being put in circulation by the proposed free coinage act, we should have less, and what we would have would be of less value.

The only persons who would profit by the free coinage act would be mine owners and others who have silver bullion.

They would take all the silver they have to the mint and have 72 cents worth of it or less stamped as a dollar piece and profit by the difference. It is strange some people can't realize that no power on earth can make 72 cents equal, intrinsically, to 100 cents.—Lou. Post.

It is a well known fact that birds enjoy much longer terms of life than do mammals. Hesiod and Pliny both tell us of rooks that lived to the patriarchal age of 700 years, and that the average life of a raven was 240 years. How far this was correct we cannot determine. It is well known that they outlive man; while swans have been known to live 200 years, chaffinches and nightingales have been kept in confinement for 40 years. Girardin tells us that he had a heron for 52 years, and that he knew of two storks that built their nests in the same place for 40 years.

"If you take the last piece of bread on the plate," said the mother to her marriageable daughter, "you won't be married for seven years."

The young lady broke the bread into two pieces and took one piece.

"That's better," said her mischievous brother, "that reduces the period to three and a half years."—New York Press.

Roasted crickets are a favorite article of diet with some tribes of Utah and California Indians, while among others the grasshopper is relished as a culinary delicacy.

Safe and Reliable.

"In buying a cough medicine for children," says H. A. Walker, a prominent druggist of Ogden, Utah, "never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. I particularly recommend Chamberlain's because I have found it to be safe and reliable." 25c and 50c bottles for sale by Dr. M. L. Bourne, Druggist and Optician, Stanford, Ky.

AN INTRODUCTION.

To the thorough car service of the Wisconsin Central Lines and Northern Pacific Railroad is unnecessary. Its advantages and conveniences have been fully established. It is the only route to the Pacific Coast over which both Pullman Vestibuled first-class and Pullman Tourist Cars are operated from Chicago via St. Paul without change. Through train leaves Chicago every day at 10:45 p. m. The traveler via this route passes through the most picturesque, interesting and prosperous belt of country in the Western World. There is a scenery with most striking contrasts that range from the rolling prairie and the pine forest level to the wildest passes of the wildest mountains in the world.

There is a series of the noblest cities, towns and villages of every variety and size, from the hamlet or the tiny farm, upward; the richest mines in the world and the grandest scenery of the continent; the wildest scenery on the Continent; canons as weird as a nightmare; hills, snows and peaks startling in the magnificence of their beauty and a perfection of comfort in traveling that has never been surpassed.

Fast train via the Wisconsin Central Lines for St. Paul, Minneapolis and Chicago. All trains leave Chicago at 5:00 p. m. daily with Pullman Vestibuled Sleepers and the Central's famous dining cars attached.

A Wonder Worker.

Mr. Frank Huffman, a young man of Burlington, O., states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians and used their treatment until he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case to be Consumption and incurable. He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds and at that time was not able to walk across the street without resting. He found before he had used half of a dollar bottle that he was much better; he continued to use it and is today enjoying good health. If you have any throat, lung or chest trouble try this. Trial bottle free at A. R. Penny's drug store.

La Grippe.

No healthy person need fear any dangerous consequences from an attack of la grippe properly treated. It is much the same as a severe cold and requires precisely the same treatment. Remain quietly at home and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed for a severe cold and a prompt and complete recovery is sure to follow. This remedy also counteracts any tendency of la grippe to result in pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it during the epidemics of the past two years, we have yet to learn of a single case that has not recovered or that has resulted in pneumonia. 25c and 50c bottles for sale by Dr. M. L. Bourne, Druggist and Optician, Stanford, Ky.

Beginning with the New Year, it is customary to form new resolutions and as far as possible profit by experience of the past. The general credit system having been universally condemned by both debtor and creditor as a curse to our country, one of our young grocery merchants has concluded that it will be wise and profitable to both himself and his customers to steer clear of this reef that has made shipwreck of his customers in the past and at the same time offer such inducements to his customers that they can not afford to buy their groceries elsewhere. For example he will sell you

20 lbs. Granulated Sugar for $1.00

23 lbs. best C Sugar..... 1.00

5 lbs. Choice Green Coffee..... 1.00

4 lbs. Arbuckle's Coffee..... .85
